

Lakweshia Ewing, CEO
Strategic Solutions Consultant

Lakweshia Ewing lives and breathes education and learning. As a professional business and educational consultant, she holds multiple degrees in Applied Science, Psychology, Education, and Organizational Leadership. Africana Studies and Sociology. Ewing has more than 18 years in crisis management, racial equity, diversity and inclusion, program design, organizational strategy, project management and evaluation, group dynamics, teambuilding and community coalition building, she has become a notable force in the realms of the government, education, philanthropic, faith based, business start-up and nonprofit sectors helping to procure over 20 million dollars in local, state, federal and private donor grants for educational programs and organizational development projects.

She currently is the CEO for Unlearn Everything and Live, LLC, a consulting firm with a niche focus on providing organizational teambuilding, leadership development racial equity and inclusion strategies. Ewing also serves as a trainer for the nationally- renowned Racial Equity Institute, based in North Carolina. She also serves as Chaplin for the Chattanooga Police Department. She is a certified member of the John Maxwell Leadership Team, David Kessler Grief educator trainer and an Internationally certified Human Rights Consultant. She is an executive coach, and she also serves as a Chaplain for the Chattanooga Police Department. Lakweshia frequently partners to provide Brene Brown Dare to Lead TM intensive workshops with an anti-racism lens.

Lakweshia has personally received many notable awards, recognitions and certifications, such as Harvard University Young American Leader Award, International Church of God in Christ Achievers “Top 20 Under 40, Urban League Small Business of the Year recipient, Chattanooga Tennessee Top 20 under 40 young leaders award, University of Pennsylvania Research Scholars Award, City of Memphis Award of Merit, Footprints Foundation Community Leader Award, National Next City Vanguard class member , Whitney M. Young Humanitarian Award , and Stanford University Design Thinking certification.

As an international Evangelist missionary, facilitator, and speaker, she has been featured in Huffington Post, Washington Post, and several other notable media publications.

She is married and resides in Chattanooga, TN with her loving husband, Mr. Julian Ewing. The happy couple have no children of their own but became the proud guardians of her younger brothers, Fredrick and Emerson upon the death of the boy’s mother in 2010.